Forgive Me Grandma, For I Have Sinned

United Solo NYC's Top-Selling One-Woman Show is coming to the 2025 Orlando Fringe Festival this May.

Prepare to be captivated by the heartfelt and humorous journey of Stephanie Wilson in her acclaimed one-woman show, Forgive Me Grandma, For I Have Sinned, which made a powerful impression at the United Solo Festival in New York City—where it became the top-selling performance and sparked buzz throughout the theater community.

Now heading to Orlando Fringe, Wilson brings her raw, emotional, and comedic storytelling to new audiences. Hailed as “transformative, relatable, and inspiring” by Broadway World, the show invites viewers to laugh, cry, and reflect as it explores identity, family, and the price of chasing success.

Co-written and directed by David Meneses of Orlando, FL., the show dives into what happens when a perfectly curated life falls apart. In the face of loss, abandonment, and burnout, Wilson made bold, unconventional choices—like selling everything she owned to sail around the world—in pursuit of freedom and self. What unfolds is an honest, uplifting tale of rediscovering the wild, free-spirited girl buried beneath expectation and survival.

Produced by I.D-10t Productions, the show blends monologue, multimedia, and narrative play. Forgive Me Grandma, For I Have Sinned is more than a performance—it's an intimate conversation filled with grit, heart, and laughter.

Don't miss the show audiences have called “fearless, funny, and deeply moving.”
